WRITER HEADS LIBERTY LOBBY PUBLICITY UNIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, Sept. 6 — Cliff Sandahl, a former Washington newspaper man, has been named public relations director of Liberty Lobby, a national conservative nonpolitical organization.

Prior to assuming his present position, Sandahl has handled special writing projects, including the Conservative Victory Plan, which have been widely distributed by the 170,000 member Liberty Lobby.

Sandahl served as an Associated Press staff member in Nebraska and Washington and is a former editor of the North Platte [Neb.] Daily Telegraph Bulletin. He is a former president of the Lutheran Laymen's Fellowship of Metropolitan Washington.
